Vintage Summary:

The 2012 growing season started with an early bud break. Ideal conditions during bloom allowed for an almost perfect set. The temperate conditions continued through veraison in July and August, averaging 2 weeks earlier than 2011, giving very uniform clusters.

The harvest season started off with ideal moderate temperature through September. The first half of October was warm and the harvest concluded at the end of October and early November with three rain storms.

The wonderful set gave a bountiful yield during harvest. 50-100% tonnage increase over historical averages were seen. The berry sizes were smaller resulting in higher phenolic content while the cluster sizes were larger. The unique combination resulted in higher than normal yields while maintaining very good quality.

Winemaker's Tasting Notes:

A bright nose of red currant, cherry, raspberry, red licorice, white pepper, beet and orange blossom. A red raspberry attack leads into a juicy mouth of cherry, blackberry, cranberry, soy, and nutmeg. Silky dark chocolate tannins give way to a long strawberry
